END CLEARANCE SALE

The ordinary clothing merchant carries the ends of his suitings to the dull seasons, January and February or July and August, before he cuts prices.

completely every so often. That keeps everything in my store practically brand new.

The Security Trust Company, one of Hartford, Conn.'s, big banking institutions, administrators to the estate of a recently deceased tailor who sold high priced clothes to measure, sold me this past week some two thousand yards of ends that I must clean out in order to sell regular stock.

$10.00. These goods are ranged in a line in my store so every man can be his own salesman.

Hundreds of styles of trouserings, sold by him from $7, $8, $10, my price to order, $3.25. Hundreds of Suits uncalled for from my different stores I have placed in my New York stores.
